

NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS

PETER M. COLLINS, Ph.D. (Catholic University of America, Washington, D.C.), is Senior Research Fellow at the Institute for the History of Philosophy and Pedagogy in Rockville, Maryland. His teaching and research focus is on philosophy and education. He taught philosophy as a full-time faculty member of Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisconsin. He also taught in various other universities and published papers in the United States and in several other countries, including the Philippines.

NOELLE LESLIE DELA CRUZ, Ph.D. (De La Salle University, Manila), is Associate Professor of Philosophy at De La Salle University, Manila. She coedited Feminista: Race, class, and gender in the Philippines (2011). She received first prize for poetry in the prestigious Philippine Free Press Literary Awards for her ekphrastic poem "Discourse." She specializes in existentialism, phenomenology, feminist philosophy, and philosophy of literature. She is an associate book review editor of this journal.

LENI DIR GARCIA, Ph.D. (De La Salle University, Manila), is Full Professor of Philosophy at De La Salle University, Manila. She is presently Director of Research and Advanced Studies of the College of Liberal Arts, DLSU. Her interests include Eastern philosophy, philosophy and literature, comparative mythology, gender studies, philosophy of dance, philosophy of crafts, and existential philosophy.

ROLANDO M. GRIPALDO, Ph.D. (University of the Philippines, Quezon City), is a retired full professor from the Mindanao State University, Marawi City, and De La Salle University, Manila. He is the editor of this journal and has read papers in various venues locally and abroad. He has published articles and books. His interests include the Anglo-American, Continental, and Pragmatic traditions.

BENDA HOFMEYR, Ph.D. (Radboud University Nijmegen, The Netherlands), is Associate Professor of Philosophy at the Department of Philosophy, University of Pretoria, South Africa. Her research interests fall within the broad ambit of contemporary Continental philosophy (especially thinkers following in the wake of Martin Heidegger with emphasis on post-structuralism and phenomenology) with an enduring fascination for the inextricable entanglement of the ethical and the political. At present, she is reflecting on the entanglement of European and post-colonial African philosophy. For more information visit www.bendahofmeyr.com.

MARK OMOROVIE IKEKE, Ph.D. (Nnamdi Azikiwe University, Awka, Nigeria, and Fordham University, Bronx, New York). He is Senior Lecturer and Acting Head of the Department of Religious Studies and Philosophy, Delta State University, Abraka, Nigeria. His research interests include environmental ethics, religious education, justice and peace education, indigenous peoples and cultures, conflict resolution and management, human rights, and globalization and citizenship studies.

MARK KOURIE, M.A. (University of Pretoria, South Africa), completed his M.A. dissertation by examining the status of love (eros) in the works of Emmanuel Levinas, Luce Irigaray, and Jean-Luc Nancy. After studying and working in the philosophy department of the University of Pretoria for a number of years, he now pursues a career in clinical psychology. His philosophical interests include continental philosophy, and more particularly, the continental perspectives on themes such as ethics, love, and subjectivity.

MIGUEL LOPEZ-ASTORGA, Ph.D. (University of Cadiz, Spain), is Associate Professor and Researcher at the Institute of Humanistic Studies “Juan Ignacio Molina,” University of Talca, Talca campus, Chile. He specialized in logic and philosophy of science. His interests include philosophy of education, epistemology, foundations of logic, and ethics, among others. He has published several articles.

RIZALINO NOBLE MALABED, M.A. (International University of Japan, Minami Uonuma-shi, Niigata), is in the doctoral program of the Department of Philosophy, University of the Philippines, Diliman. He is Assistant Professor of Political Science at the Department of Social Sciences, University of the Philippines at Los Baños, Laguna. His areas of interest are in political philosophy, theories of global politics, and Philippine politics and history.

MARC OLIVER D. PASCO, M.A. (Ateneo de Manila University, Quezon City), is Assistant Professor of Philosophy in Ateneo de Manila University. He is currently writing his dissertation on Jean Baudrillard’s idea of hyperreality and its relation to Martin Heidegger’s ruminations on finitude. He has published articles on Heidegger, Jurgen Habermas, Pierre Bourdieu, Plato, Immanuel Kant, and Baudrillard in various local and international peer-reviewed journals. He has also recently co-authored a textbook on philosophy of the human person for senior high schools. His research interests include philosophy of media and culture, metaphysics, and social philosophy.

WILFRIED M. A. VANHOUTTE, Ph.D. (Catholic University of Leuven, Belgium), is Assistant Planning Officer and Professor at the Department of Philosophy, Saint Louis University, Baguio City. He is the book review editor of this journal and has published many papers. His interests include the history of philosophy, ethics, and religion.